Report Delivery:

The electronic copy of your purchased report will be delivered to you via email, within 24 to 48 hours post payment processing.

For upcoming reports which are pre-booked, timeline for delivery would be a minimum of 6 to 8 business days.

Using a 'Single User License':

A 'Single User License' purchase authorizes access of the report to only 1 person; this cannot be shared with other employees. The user may view the report and associated material only for individual purposes. The report is for internal use only and may not be published or redistributed in any form, in part or in full.

Using a 'Multi User License':

A 'Multi User License' purchase authorizes access of the report for 2 to 5 users only within the same department of the same company. The users may view the report and associated material only for corporate purposes. The report is for internal use only and may not be published or redistributed in any form, in part or in full.

Using a 'Enterprise User License':

An 'Enterprise License' authorizes access of the report to a company wide audience. This includes subsidiary companies or other companies within a group of companies.

The report is for internal use only and may not be published or redistributed in any form, in part or in full.

Payment and after-sales support:

In line with the industry practice, all sales are final and payments once made are non-refundable, owing to the nature of our business, where a report essentially constitutes a transfer of our analysis & understanding of the market. In addition, the contents for each report are clearly defined on our website and users are advised to read the table of contents carefully prior to purchase. With this in mind, we provide comprehensive post-sales support to our clients, which includes call-time with the author/analyst to address any queries about the report. In addition, clients can also request additional data points, up to 10% of the report cost, free of charge, post purchase.

Global Market Insights reports are based on our understanding of the market and data finding efforts undertaken by our team. We assume no responsibility for any damage or losses that may result with the use of our reports.

Prices do not include international, federal, state, and local taxes. You will be responsible for all applicable sales, use and VAT taxes levied on this transaction. Purchase via internet, catalog, telephone, or other remote means, does not exempt your order from tax liability. Please check your local laws regarding your tax obligation.

USER AUTHORIZATION:

By making this purchase, the user acknowledges that; this purchase is being paid by a credit card for which I am either the credit card holder or have been authorized to use the credit card to make the purchase by the credit card holder. I understand that if I have not been authorized to use the credit to make the purchase and the credit card holder disputes the charge for any reason that I can be held legally liable both civilly and criminally for any chargebacks and further agree to reimburse Global Market Insights Inc. for any chargeback(s) and or fees as a result of the transaction.
